New Nonstop Makes the “Windy City” a Breeze Southwest Airlines to Start Nonstop Service to Chicago

For the fifth time in 2005, San Antonio International Airport is happy to announce that nonstop service is reaching a new destination. The latest news comes from Southwest Airlines and features one of the most exciting cities in the world. Starting on October 2, Chicago will be available to San Antonians via nonstop flights. The low-cost airline is already taking reservations for the daily nonstop which will connect San Antonio International Airport and Chicago Midway Airport. Starting on Sunday, October 2, the airline will maintain the following schedule:

From Chicago (MDW) to San Antonio (SAT)

Departs	Arrives
9:20am	11:10am

From Chicago (MDW) to San Antonio (SAT)

Departs	Arrives
11:35am	1:25pm

The new flight to Chicago will bring SAT's total number of nonstop destinations to 31. It's also the latest in a string of positive announcements coming from San Antonio International. Already in 2005, new nonstops have been added to exciting destinations such as New York City, San Francisco, Orlando, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles and Washington, D.C. – Dulles. A new airline also joined the SAT family in 05'. Frontier Airlines started their operation in San Antonio on June 26 with two daily nonstops to Denver, Colorado.
